2. Who are these? Liv - ing be - neath the sky, While the
3. Who are these? Sit - ting a - round the fire, They'll be 4. Who are these? Leav - ing the beat - en track? They are pack on the back, a song in the heart to shim - mer - ring sun, the pat - ter - ing rain, the hap - py to have your com - pany if that is climb - ing high to the o - pen sky, and they ease the load? It is a hun - dred years and more since they clouds pass by? They will dine be - neath the boughs and their your de - sire. And the eve - ning will be gay at the won't turn back. You may join them where you will for the crowd - ed through the door. And they're lead - er al - ways vows That they're sun - set hour of day With a gate is o - pen still And the com - ing a - long as gay and strong as ne - ver a - fraid of wasps, and hard - ly song to sing and a tale to tell and Guides of to - day can find their way to ev - er they came be - fore. They are e - ver a - fraid of cows. _____ man - y a tune to play. _____ the path a - cross the hill. 4.They are Guides, all Guides, And in un - ex - pec - ted pla - ces You'll Guides, all Guides, at this mo - ment you will find them With a meet their friend - ly fa - ces, and a rea - dy hand be - sides, And there's hun - dred years be - hind them, and a stea - dy heart be - sides, For in not much dan - ger of find - ing you're a stran - ger, For Com - need or dan - ger, they're friends with ev - 'ry stran - ger, And as mis - sion - er or Ran - ger, they are Guides, All Guides.

Brown - ie, Guide, and Ran - ger, they are Guides, All Guides.
